

FAMILY FOCUS

By Chris Myles

Partner and Head of Family Law Team

Family disputes are often extremely painful for all involved and talking in confidence to someone who can listen and advise you on your personal circumstances, as well as the right action to take, can help minimise the stress.

It is often helpful to obtain advice from a Family Law Specialist to discuss concerns about family issues, frequently problems can be resolved by negotiation before people's views become entrenched.

Our specialists have knowledge and experience of dealing with family matters; Co-habitation agreements, Divorce and Separation, Maintenance & Property Disputes and Residence & Contact orders relating to children.

By having a specialist resolution accredited family law expert at each of our three offices, York, Malton and Selby, who can deal with your dispute in a non-confrontational way and our family law team ensure we deal with your matter effectively and efficiently.

If there is violence, either physical or emotional, we can help get emergency protection for you and your children. We can act immediately because we have a Community Legal Service Contract.

We are also one of the firms in North Yorkshire to offer a Mediation Service to help work out arrangements for children or family finances, and we are recommended in the Chambers Directory as experienced specialists in this region of the country.

If you feel you need to seek advice as to your current situation please contact Chris Myles at Crombie Wilkinson on freephone 0800 0086658 or call into the York Office at 19 Clifford Street, Selby Office at 6 Park Street or Malton Office at Forsyth House Market Place to arrange an initial free interview.

We will advise immediately on whether or not you will be able to obtain Community Legal Service funding so you know where you stand straight away.
